

Mrs. Synan's 1st Grade Class

Reading

This week we read a story called "Jasper's Beanstalk." The kids were all so excited that we have a student named Jasper in our class. Our Jasper is not a cat though. I used this story to introduce two different reading strategies, story structure and summarizing. Ask your child to explain these two concepts.

Star Student Aja Myers

Aja was our star this week. She shared that she loves pink and white, that she wishes she was a real princess, that she loves to read and she loves to play Wii at home. Aja had a great time with Marshall. She even dressed him up in a costume. I think Marshall was sad to leave Aja and her family, but is looking forward to his next visit.

Math

This week we worked on addition sentences. We talked about how they can be written horizontally and vertically. Please review these 2 words with your child as much as possible; it's important they can tell them apart.

Have you asked your child how they do their touch math?

Practice math facts using touch math. Write a number sentence and then have your child add the touch points.
